FIGHT FOR GOOD ROADS

Both National Platforms Will Probably Declare for Better Highways.

NATIONAL PARTISAN

Both Democrats and Republicans Working for Same End and Fight Renewed in Congress.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18 .- Strong pressure will be brought to bear on the resolutions committees of both the Chicago and the St. Louis conventions to report a plank in favor of the government construction of good roads. It is known that the President has considered this subject very closely, but it is impossible to learn whether or not he favors it. Influential men, who believe that the government should undertake the great work ernment should undertake the great work of improving the means of rural communication, have urged him to advise the incorporation of this feature in the Republican platform, and these will go to Chicago for the purpose of influencing the committees, which will go so far towards shaping the policy of the party. There will also be made a determined and intelligent effort to have the Democrate declare for the governmental construction of good roads. It is more than likely that both parties will have some such plank in their platforms. The construction of roads by the government is not a parties an question. At the last ession of Congress three bills were introduced appropriating money for this work. struction of roads by the government is not a partisan question. At the last seasion of Congress three bills were introduced appropriating money for this work, one by a Democrat and two by Republicans. The first bill on the subject was introduced about ten years ago by the late Major Peter Otey, member of Congress from the Sixth Virginia District. It was reintroduced by Judge William F. Rhea after the death of Major Otey. Senator Boles Penrose, of Pennsylvania, introduced a similar bill some years ago, but to Major Otey should be given the credit of the first proposal in tangible form that the Federal government undertake the work of giving the country good roads.

Representative Walter Brownlow, of the Third Tennessee District, introduced a will last winter appropriating $24,000,000 for the construction of roads. He is a Republican. Later, Senator Latimer, of South Carolina, a Democrat, and Senator Gallingor, of New Hampshire, introduced bills identical with that introduced by Mr. Brownlow. None of the bills were ever reported from committee.

These bills will not have to be reintroduced at the beginning of next session, and one of them may be reported. It has been found that there is sobjection to them among Southern men especially, because of the fact that they do not make provision for the supervision of the States in which the money is to be spent. This abjection was frequently urged by Representative Lamb, of Virginia. It is believed that the bill could be so amended as to provide that a State official and local engineers should oversee the expenditure of the money appropriated and the work of construction.

It is rather more than prohable that both the mational platforms will declare for roads construction.

reply has been received from either candidate.

In political circles here the impression grows that there is a good chance for some dark horse to trot in and capture the Democratic gubernatorial nomination at Greensboro, and R. A. Doughton and Judge E. J. Justice are most prominently mentioned. Some claim that Justice will withdraw from the contest against Hoke for the Supreme Court, and will in that way get the support of his district and the friends of Judge Hoke for the nomination for Governor, and bear off the prize. Supporters of both Glenn and Stedman seem confident to-night of success Wednesday at the Greensborg convention.
